Email alerts

We are currently working on a new way to keep you informed with our work: email alerts. Email alerts are automatic notifications that you can receive whether exactly at the publication of a news item, on a daily basis or weekly, as it is more convenient for you. They will contain the latest news we publish regarding EIOPA's activities. You may already subscribe to this service by filling out your email address below.

You can receive email alerts:

- on a daily basis - if a news item is published that day, you will automatically receive an email in the evening. It cumulates the news published during the day in one email alert;
- on publication - just after the news has been published, you will receive an email. If several news are published in the same day, you will receive emails with each published news;
- on a weekly basis - on Fridays afternoon. It cumulates all the news published during the week in one email alert.
